OFFICIAL INFORMATION ACT REQUEST

I refer to your Official Information Act 1982 (the Act) request of 29 October 2023 for:
I noted,

Our Nominations Service has over 1,600 women on its database. In the past year, we advised our database members about 103 public sector board and committee vacancies. We matched their skills and experience to the roles and supported their applications.

Can you please kindly listed the name of positions you have advised your database member about?

How many other application you have support and can you please supplied the name of positions you have provided support to. Besides, Bernadette Arapere are there any other successful case you can share?

The Ministry for Women provides a Nominations Service to support women interested in governance positions within the public sector. We advise women enrolled in our Nominations database about vacancies on public sector boards and committees, matching their skills, backgrounds, and levels of experience with the roles advertised, and support their applications if they decide to apply.

In response to the first part of your information request, we have provided the list of 103 public sector board and committee vacancies, that we notified our database members about between the period 1 July 2022 and 30 June 2023 in the table attached in Appendix One.

Under section 18(g) of the Official Information Act (that the information requested is not held by the Ministry), we are not able to provide the number of applications we have supported across the 103 vacancies listed. We don't capture specific data about the number of candidates we support across each vacancy as this can be provided in a number of ways, including sharing information on vacancies, matching skills and expertise and responding to questions from candidates. The ministry shares information on board vacancies but is not always notified of the outcome. This part of the process is managed by the agencies appointing the boards. Information about board appointments are published on gazette.govt.nz.
